NATIONAL MEN'S HEALTH MONTH

As we wrap up National Men's Health Month, CHCAMS CEO Terrence Shirley wants to make sure men know they need to be screened for breast cancer, especially if there is a family history of it with women or men in your family. The odds of a male getting breast cancer are extremely low, but it does happen. When Terrence was Administrator at the UMMC Cancer Center and Research Institute, he took the lead in promoting breast health in men by being interviewed and by having a mammogram while being filmed. Thanks to Terrence Shirley for leading the way in promoting men's breast health and cancer screenings. For men, and the women who love them, know the risks and the symptoms of breast cancer, and get screened.
